Kalyani Issue #4: Private Out Loud

Kalyani Magazine's fourth issue: Private Out Loud. Kalyani Magazine is the literary magazine by women of color. As women, especially as women of color, privacy - the kind that often keeps you screaming or whispering until your grave - is a natural part of life. Sometimes we keep things secret from the "community," from our loved ones, or even from ourselves. But often this privacy cracks. Maybe by accident, and maybe when we emerge kicking and screaming. Sometimes our secrets end up in front of others, whether they see us or not. And sometimes, when the armor cracks, even we can't believe what we see. These are the moments we are private out loud. We are fortunate to get to feature artist Cheryl Clarke - activist, poet, lesbian, an amazing woman. She talks about the Black Arts Movement in the 60s and on Private Out Loud as a writer: "[P]eople make a mistake if they think the poetry is personal. It's not. It's following Audre Lorde's directive around breaking the silence."
