Following Patton: War Correspondent James Wellard with General George Patton and the Third Army James Wellard

Following Patton, first published in 1946, is author James Wellard's firsthand account of his time as a correspondent assigned to General George S. Patton and the U.S. Third Army in North Africa and Europe during the Second World War. As the Introduction states, the book (originally published as General George S. Patton, Jr.: Man Under Mars) “not only tells of General Patton but also seeks to explain him.” The book, the first book-length biography prepared on Patton, provides a look at Patton's childhood and early adulthood, chapters on his incredible successes during the war years, a look at the infamous slapping incident, and ends with his return to the U.S. and an Epilogue describing his death following a car accident in Germany (written just as the book was going to press). Included are 12 pages of photographs and maps.
