A powerful novel of innocence betrayed, the chilling consequences, and a tortured journey back to faith. This is the story of Jack, born into a Christian home with a father committed to God, a stay-at-home mother, and a plan to become one of the Lord's workers. Then a friendly army officer moved in next door.

When Jack, a troubled teenager, runs away to join the army his father remembers that friendly neighbor and asks him to keep Jack safe in the raging European war. At war's end Jack attends a Christian college physically strong, emotionally insecure and spiritually feeble. To prove that he has become a "real man" he assaults a classmate, Katherine.

This is also the story of Katherine and of Karis, their child, conceived in violence, who matures into young womanhood oblivious of her father. Attending a Christian college where Jack has become the Academic Dean Karis struggles to make a life determinant decision while facing the temptation of a forbidden love.
